

Creating an Educator's Portfolio

Friday, May 20, 2005 with Valerie N. Williams, Ph.D.

Description: The purpose of this session is to introduce the Educator's Portfolio as a tool for faculty reflection, self- and peer-assessment, and structured documentation of teaching and broader educator roles. The overall goal of the session is to provide a framework for structuring an educator's portfolio and to address frequently asked questions about what to include and how to use a portfolio as a resource toward achieving educational goals and/or toward academic advancement review.

Learning Objectives

- Describe purpose of an educator's portfolio
- Teaching roles and their relationship to portfolio sections
