

Exploring the Learner Frontier

Friday, September 21, 2007 with Dr. Chittur A. Sivaram

Learning Objectives

1. Define what the “learning frontier” is
2. Define what it takes to teach successfully in your environment
3. Define how you measure success as an educator

September 2007 EGR Presenter

Chittur A. Sivaram, M.D., is a professor of Medicine and Vice Chief in the Cardiovascular Section of the College of Medicine at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center. He joined the OUHSC in January 1993, and was previously at Texas Tech University (Amarillo Campus) from 1983 through 1993.

Native of India, Dr. Sivaram attended medical school at Kerala University, Calicut Medical College. He served his residency and fellowships at Post Graduate Institute of Medical Education and Research in Chandigarh, India and the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta Canada. Dr. Sivaram has served as Director of Cardiology Fellowship Training Program at OUHSC since 1995. He was the recipient of the Stanton L. Young Master Teacher Award in 1999, awarded the Presbyterian Presidential Professor from 1999 to 2003. He was also awarded the OU Regents' Award for Superior Teaching in 2007 and the Aesculapian award winner 6 times, last one in 2007.

PowerPoint Slides
Handouts

