

Facilitating Learning for the Next Generation of Students

Friday, October 18, 2013 with Stephen K. Young, D.D.S.,
Dean and David Ross Boyd Professor OUHSC College of Dentistry

Learning Objectives

At the completion of this presentation, participants will be able to:

- Describe implications for teaching from generation-based perspectives about:
 - Work style and career
 - Feedback and recognition
 - Education and learning
- Discuss challenges and opportunities for engaging “Millennials” in health professions education:
 - Learning environment/learning encounters
 - Narrowing the Generation Gap between “Oldsters” and “Youngsters”

About the EGR Presenter

Dr. Stephen K. Young is Dean of the University of Oklahoma College of Dentistry. Dr. Young graduated from the University of Missouri at Kansas City School of Dentistry in 1971 and received a Master of Science degree in Oral Pathology and Diagnosis from the University of Michigan in 1974. He joined the faculty of the University of Oklahoma College of Dentistry in 1976 as an assistant professor in the Department of Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology. In 1995 he was appointed Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and in 1999, Dr. Young assumed the position of Dean. Dr. Young has been chosen outstanding classroom instructor by seven graduating dental classes. In 1999, the University of Oklahoma recognized him for exemplary teaching by naming him a David Ross Boyd Professor.

He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology and a Diplomat of the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology. Dr. Young has served as chair of the American Dental Association’s Council on Dental Education and Licensure and the Joint Commission on National Dental Examinations. He is past chair of the ADA Ad Hoc Committee on Ethics and Integrity in Dental Education and the American Dental Education Association Commission on Change and Innovation in Dental Education. He has been active in the Oklahoma Dental Association and has served on the Board of the Oklahoma Dental Foundation. In 2005, the Oklahoma Dental Association selected Dr. Young as Dentist of the Year and the University of Missouri at Kansas City Dental Alumni Association named him Alumnus of the Year in 2007.

