Creating Partnerships Between Physicians and Parents of Children with Disabilities

This publication was written by Dr. Judy Berry, who is a partner of the Center for Learning and Leadership, Oklahoma’s University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities. Dr. Berry draws from her personal experiences as a parent of an adult with disabilities and her professional experiences as a professor specializing in developmental and family psychology at The University of Tulsa to create an easy to read guide for physicians and families of children with disabilities. There are practical suggestions to increase communication and enhance collaboration between the family and the physician.
