

Using Objectives as a Learning Contract

Friday, November 18, 2005 with Dave Thompson, Ph.D., College of Public Health

Description: Learning objectives can be used to create a teaching/learning partnership between faculty member and students. This session will offer participants ways to:

- Identify the components of a useful course objective.
- List educational goals that are served by course objectives.
- List parts of the teacher's "contract" that course objectives help specify.
- List parts of the learner's "contract" that course objectives help specify.
- Identify resources to facilitate the writing of learning objectives.

